Final chance: Back our bid to be first Borough of Culture

- Only 10 days to go before bid is submitted to Mayor of London
- Make sure to pledge your support at WFculture19.co.uk

There's just over one week to go before Waltham Forest's bid to be the first London Borough of Culture is submitted to the Mayor of London.

If Waltham Forest is awarded the title, benefits would be enjoyed across the borough with more than £1million funding to spend on arts and culture. The money would be used to deliver a spectacular year of culture that builds on Waltham Forest's proud traditions of creativity and entrepreneurship. It would also boost economic opportunities throughout the borough.

In July Waltham Forest was the first borough to announce its bid and the campaign has received overwhelming support from residents, businesses and celebrities from the area ever since.

The campaign has shown off the people and places that make this unique, creative borough such a special place to live, work and visit.

Residents' suggestions and comments have been used to help write the bid which will be delivered to the Mayor on 1st December.

Thank you to everyone who has been involved with the campaign so far for all of their hard work and enthusiasm. There is still time to make an impact on the bid. Pledge your support for Waltham Forest by backing the bid at wfculture19.co.uk. Follow @WFculture19 on social media and use #WFculture19 and #mylocalculture to show your support of our bid. Waltham Forest is also (at time of writing) in the lead in ITV London's Borough of Culture poll – help to keep us there by voting at http://bit.ly/2z337kt. This is your last chance!

Leyton bakery closed after pigeons found in storeroom

Pigeons and cockroaches were living in the storeroom of Breadcraft Bakery in Leyton

An infested Leyton bakery has been closed after complaints from neighbours. Council environmental health officers investigated and discovered the health risk.

Pigeons and cockroaches were among the species making a home amongst supplies and produce in the storeroom of the Breadcraft Bakery, Heybridge Way, Leyton.

Shocked Council officers secured a closure order from Thames Magistrates' Court in late October, saving customers from an unpleasant Halloween health horror.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for the Environment, said: "This unscrupulous baker was prepared to risk the health of his customers – and now his pigeons have really come home to roost as he has been ordered to close before his irresponsibility harms someone.

"Keeping our residents safe is always our first priority. The environmental health team works extremely hard to make sure businesses serving the Waltham Forest community are clean and hygienic – I know residents will join me in offering them thanks as we move towards the festive break."

Pigeons can spread diseases including histoplasmosis and cryptococcosis, which can both be fatal.

The closure is the latest in a series of successes for Waltham Forest environmental health officers in the past year.

In September inspectors discovered a mouse infestation in Walthamstow bakery Déjà Vu, and BBQ Express in Leyton was closed after a customer found a cockroach in their food packaging.

In perhaps the most shocking case, the owner of the China House market in Leyton was banned from operating a food business and fined £8,000 following what magistrates described as 'one of the most shocking cases of food hygiene they had dealt with'.

Children's respite changes

A consultation has been launched on plans to regenerate Belmont Park Special School and the Leyton Green children's respite facility. Waltham Forest Council wants to refurbish the school, which has a good Ofsted report but run down facilities. The plans also propose moving the respite facility at 28 Leyton Green Road across the road to the Summerfield site, where there are currently office facilities. Office staff would move to the former Magistrates Court in Walthamstow, which is under development. Meanwhile 31 homes would be built at 92 Leyton Green Road to fund the developments.

- The consultation will be held from 3 – 7pm on Thurs 23 Nov and from 10am – 12noon on Saturday 25 November at Belmont Park School, Leyton Green Road, E10 6DB. Anyone who cannot attend should email: capital.programmes@walthamforest.gov.uk with the subject line Leyton Green Partnership Consultation.

Let's get Digital: tell us what you think

How would you like the Council to use digital technology? A new survey is seeking residents ideas on how to make Waltham Forest more digital and tech-savvy.

With a new website, more services than ever available online and a lot of work to support residents to use online services safely and securely, going digital is an important part of recent changes across the Council. Despite all of this progress, there is still plenty more to be done.

Residents views are being used to decide how the Council and the borough could use technology in the future. The vision will be captured in the next phase of the Digital Strategy.

Get involved by filling out the survey to give your views on the Council and the online services it provides. Are you confident using online services? If not, complete the consultation to suggest what support you would find useful.

Residents responses will help to identify what is important to you and what should be included within the new strategy. The survey only takes a few minutes, and means that your voice will be heard on the 'digital' future of the Council and the borough.

What would help you to feel confident using digital technology?

£1million funding to build a safer, stronger borough

The funding will help the Council to take action against rogue landlords

Waltham Forest has received a £1million government grant to fund community cohesion and togetherness.

The grant has been allocated from the government's Controlling Migration Fund to help build a safer, stronger borough.

Waltham Forest has received the highest grant awarded in London to date. The money will fund events which boost community cohesion including conversations to open up dialogue between newcomers and long-term residents.

The grant will also help to increase the Council's ability to take action against rogue landlords and others who prey on vulnerable residents. In addition, it will improve community safety by helping to reduce anti-social behaviour, street crime and noise.

Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest, said: "I am delighted that we have been able to secure this money from central Government. Making new people arriving in our borough welcome is both fair and right – but at the same time it is important that we keep our residents informed and address any concerns they may have about the impact of immigration on public services and community safety.

"Taking action to protect the weakest and most vulnerable in society benefits every member of the community. Involving new people arriving in Waltham Forest in the lives of their new neighbours is the best way to break down cultural barriers and give them the best chance of success in healthy, happy and strong communities. This grant means we will be able to improve the support for migrants and reassure residents at the same time."

Examples of activities that the grant might fund include recruiting and training volunteer mentors and establishing language clubs to improve English skills. It also increases the council's ability to take enforcement action and support people who are rough sleeping, as well as carry out on-the-spot checks of restaurant kitchens, construction sites and similar workplaces to confirm that employers are not in breach of immigration rules.

Remember this November

The borough came together to remember the fallen of the First and Second World Wars last weekend. Remembrance services took place across the borough to mark the occasion, with a minute of silence taking place at 11am. Council Leader Cllr Clare Coghill said: "Lives were sacrificed in the First World War and the Second World War for peace. British people and people from across the British Empire, so often forgotten, went willingly to war not for division, not for suspicion, not for ignorance, but for the hope of a peaceful future. In 2017, in the face of many challenges, I wish you all peace, hope and friendship."

What's on the lunch menu?

Children across the borough enjoyed vegetarian chilli with nachos, jerk chicken with rice and peas and salmon goujons for lunch after their favourite school meals were made for them. National School Meals week encourages as many pupils as possible to regularly eat school meals. More than 60 of the borough's schools prepare meals from scratch using seasonal, organic and free range ingredients. Parkside Primary school head cook Kay Waite said: "Nutritious school meals are so important because for some children this may be the only hot meal that they get." All school meals are free from controversial additives, desserts are low sugar and children are allowed unlimited vegetables, salads and fruit.

No place like home: How can we improve housing?

What does the future of housing look like?

Waltham Forest is launching its biggest conversation on housing in the borough to date

After spending the summer talking to residents in our 'Coffee and Conversation' roadshow, we want to hear from you specifically about Housing.

Housing cuts across all of the Council's priorities. It is both about building houses and about creating communities with good services and facilities, support networks, opportunities to study, and opportunities to gain employment.

This is an exciting time in Waltham Forest and the Housing Big Conversation will provide us with key insights and feedback to focus on achieving the best outcomes for the people of Waltham Forest.

The Council recently hosted a Housing Summit attended by over 250 people. Based on that, we have put together a 'Direction of Travel' document which is the first step in the consultation process. We will use it to start a conversation about our how we approach housing in the future.

Transforming the housing in Waltham Forest is an important part of the Council's mission to improve the quality of our residents' lives. We will use the findings from this Housing Big Conversation to produce a new Housing Strategy in 2018, which will set out how we intend to achieve this.

We recently held a conversation with residents about the three priorities for the Council: to keep Waltham Forest safe and clean, to ensure all residents have a safe roof over their head and to improve residents' life chances.

We want to hear your views on our Housing Big Conversation and help us shape our future housing services. We will be holding a series of workshops in the coming months to explore the big questions and help develop our future housing plans.

Have your say on the borough's next 15 years

Residents are giving their views on a new Local Plan which looks 15 years into our future.

The consultation is open to find out what residents think of a 'Direction of Travel' document which addresses the next phase of the Borough's development. The document is the first step in deciding where the borough is going and sets out the key challenges and opportunities ahead.

As the borough grows and develops, the Council is making sure to plan proactively for the future. This will make sure that the growth that's happening is good – taking place in the right places, at the right scale, and creating attractive liveable places as well as new economic opportunities.

Planning ahead will also have a positive impact on the borough's communities and will open up new opportunities for residents.

Residents' responses to this consultation will help the Council to develop a new Local Plan and shape our new priorities and strategies for the Borough.

There are plenty of different ways to have your say on the consultation. Visit the website to view the plans online.

You can also pick up a consultation pack at all Waltham Forest Libraries, as well as the reception of Sycamore House and Waltham Forest Town Hall, Forest Road, E17 4JF.

You can also contact us by email to have your say, by contacting planning.policy@walthamforest.gov.uk.

Get creative, go Chest-nuts!

Residents are offering their ideas for the future of the beautiful Chestnuts House. The Georgian house in the heart of Walthamstow is set to be transformed into a community facility thanks to an £80,000 grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund. Resident responses to the consultation will decide what the building is used for going forward – it has already been suggested that Chestnuts House becomes an artists' workspace, a community meeting space and a facility for the elderly. Do you have a better idea? You have until Friday 24 November to make a suggestion.

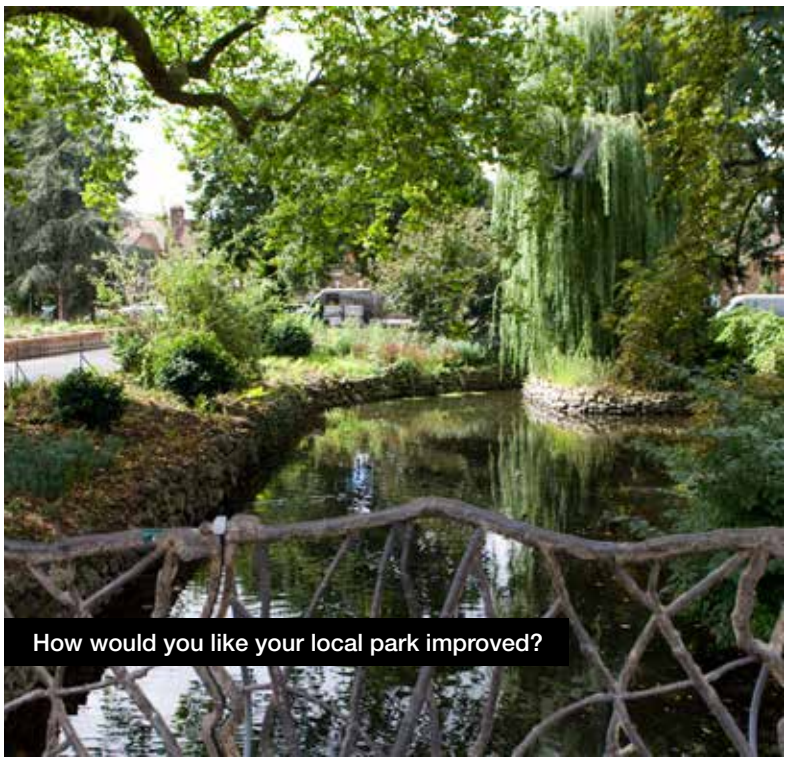
What would you do to improve your local park?

Back the bid #WFculture19



How would you like your local park improved?

- £500,000 funding to improve parks and open spaces
- Residents to submit ideas for how to spend the money

Half a million pounds of additional funding has been made available to improve Waltham Forest's parks and open spaces.

Residents are being asked to suggest how they would spend the money to improve their local park and green spaces.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for the Environment, said: "The Council is committed to improving our parks and accessible green spaces and we want Waltham Forest residents and organisations to submit their ideas for improvements."

In addition to their usual funding, parks will receive an extra £500,000 to invest in projects that benefit local communities.

Every ward in the borough will receive up to £25,000 for their own park improvement projects to enhance the enjoyment of green spaces.

Maybe you would use the money to plant new shrubs or flowerbeds. Perhaps you would like to improve existing landscaping.

Some residents may like to start initiatives that encourage biodiversity. The money could also be used to create or improve facilities – for example park buildings, sports pitches and courts, new play equipment for existing playgrounds or new food growing areas.

Your idea could be the one that is picked, so make sure you have made your suggestions on how you would like your local park or area of open space improved.

Send in your response as soon as possible. The closing date for submissions is Friday 22 December.

The Lumen Arts exhibition is still on show at Winns Gallery

Another successful Digital Month is almost at its end, but there is still time to get involved.

You can still catch the end of the Lumen Arts Prize exhibition, which has been in residence at the Winns Gallery in Lloyd Park since last week. This year's exhibition is titled 'Adventures in Digital Art' and features a number of interactive exhibits. The show displays the wide variety of techniques possible using digital tools. The exhibition closes tomorrow, so get down soon if you want to experience it.

Digital Month aims to get all Waltham Forest residents using digital tools comfortably in their day to day life, and there are still some opportunities if you're not too confident using a smartphone, tablet or computer. Two Skype for Beginners sessions are coming up on Thursday 23 and 30 November; turn up to learn how to install Skype, create a profile and make free video and voice calls over the internet.

A tech support group for over 50 year olds is taking place today, 20 November, where older residents can come together to receive help with their technological devices.

November has seen residents from all over the borough get involved with clicking, snapping, tapping and scrolling their way to digital literacy. A whole programme of events has taken place to help residents of all ages to understand everything from how to use a mobile phone to how to make the most out of social media.

One highlight of the month was an overnight "Hackathon" where developers, designers, researchers, social media gurus and project managers came together at the Town Hall to come up with interesting new ideas for culture in the borough. A "Hackathon" is an event where a group of people get together to solve a problem and create something new in a set period of time.

Investing in schools for our growing population

A brand new £8.5 million block for 11 and 12 year old pupils at Heathcote Secondary school in Chingford is the latest facility to open as part of an extensive school expansion programme. The Year 7 building has eleven classrooms, two science labs, a 'food-tech' room and an assembly hall which will also serve as a cafeteria.

Council Leader Clare Coghill, who officially opened the block, was welcomed by pupils playing steel drums. She said: "This exciting new building will surely help inspire children to get the most out of their education at Heathcote Secondary School - but the work doesn't stop here. We're investing across the borough to ensure all 70,000 children in Waltham Forest have the very best chances in life."

So far, other secondary schools where facilities have been extended include Eden Girls' School and Willowfield Humanities College. Eight classrooms and a Learning Resource Centre have just been completed at Holy Family Catholic School & Sixth Form, increasing capacity at its two sites by 240 places. Construction on two further classrooms and a sports hall will continue over the next two years.

There has also been expansion work benefitting younger pupils at Chingford Hall and Mayville primary schools while there will also be room for 210 more children at Parkside Primary from September 2018. In addition, a joint initiative between Waltham Forest Council and the Education and Skills Funding Agency has seen an old dining hall at the Jenny Hammond Primary School making way for new facilities including a new kitchen, multipurpose hall and a classroom block.

Overall, as the borough's population continues to grow, the current expansion programme will ultimately provide 1,000 extra primary places at existing schools with 300 extra places at secondary schools.

The new homes are all big enough to house a family

Moving into new homes

Residents have moved into a number of new Council homes, built as part of an ambitious housebuilding programme. The 22 homes, a mixture of flats and two-storey houses with gardens, are all high quality and large enough for a family to live in. Some of the homes are adapted to be lived in by someone in a wheelchair. Another 24 homes are set to be completed and let in the next few months. All the homes are for social rent and have solar panels, gas combi boilers and insulation. The Council has committed to building 500 new council homes for rent in the next few years. A number of other sites are also being prepared for planning so that the housebuilding can continue.

Tell us about Trumpington

Residents views are being sought on how respite care is provided for adults aged 40 and over with learning difficulties and autism, as alternatives to the Trumpington Road respite and residential service. Waltham Forest's support for people with learning disabilities and autism is focused on maximising people's independence, choice and control whenever possible. The Council aims to ensure the needs of people with learning disabilities and autism are met as often as possible in a community rather than a residential setting. We want to know what residents think about this and have launched a consultation. The consultation is open until 8 December.
